In March, 1882, Robert Koch announced his sensational discovery of a staining technique which would reveal the bacterium causing tuberculosis, now known as Mycobacterium tuberculosis.

Its support centre is located in Coventry.

That a taxpayer could not avoid this accrual-basis taxation by having the CFA insure foreign risks in lieu.