not sure about the accuracy of all the content (seems to be some opinion mixed in) but it raises some interesting points about the different types of crashes and different impact forces he lifted a piece of debris off one woman, he said, and saw the vacant eyes of krystle campbell, 29, one of three people killed in the blasts people with thyroid cancer may also develop other cancers